Police say Coward, the driver of the black sedan, was going southerly on North Montello Street and Vickery was making a left turn off the same street into Elliot when the collision took place. The impact, police report, turned the Vicerky car almost completely around and damaged the right rear door and fender. The right rear window was shattered. Damage to the car driven by the Brockton man included the front grill and bumper. Both autos had to be towed from the scene by wreckers. At Brockton Hospital, where she was taken by patrolmen Orlando J. DaSilva and Arthur J. Dion, Mrs. Vickery was treated for multiple abrasions of the head and face and released. James T. Marrow, 104 Montello Street, this city, who, police say, was a passenger in Coward's car, complained of an injury to his left knee but said he would go to his own physician for treatment. Patrolman James J. McClaren conducted the investigation at the scene, while patrolman John Zinkevicz assisted in handling traffic.

56-1075 Leavitt Street FireMay 1956

A fire originating in a wastebasket under a second floor sink badly damaged the kitchen of the second floor apartment and burned out the empty attic of the two-and-a-half story home located on a corner at 31 Grafton Street and 61 Leavitt Street about 9:50 Thursday night. The blaze spread up the wall in the rear of the sink and into the attic before being discovered by John Donovan, who with his wife, lives in the second floor apartment. They made their way out while a passing motorist sounded Box 2413, Leavitt and Grafton Street. When firefighters from Central and West Side station arrived, in charge of Duputy Burrell, flames were beginning to break out under the eaves on the Leavitt Street side and dense smoke was blanketing the neighborhood. They quickly attached booster lines and several high pressure lines and attacked the fire from the second floor kitchen and from an attic window on the westerly end of the house. Beams in the kitchen area were deeply charred, showing that the fire had burned some time before discovery.

57-0020 Accident, 9:30 A.M. Brockton Avenue, AbingtonJanuary 3, 1957

The flurry of excitement began at 9:20 when police and firefighters received the report of a person trapped in a car. Two police cruisers and several pieces of fire equipment went to the scene. The accident, a far less serious than first believed, was in Abington on Brockton avenue, near the Brockton line. A car driven by Mrs. Bronia Villa, 25, of 207 North Avenue, North Abington, police said, had skidded on the icy roadway and smashed head-on into a utility pole. Mrs. Villan told police she suffered bruises and abrasions on the forehead and on one knee. Also involved in the accident was a car driven by Mrs. Ferne Edwards, 41, of 22 Olson Street, Abington. She did not claim injury. Both cars, police said were traveling toward Brockton when the Villa car went into a skid, collided with the Edwards car and finally hit the pole. The Edwards car was spun completely around. The Villa car, badly damaged in front, shattered the bases of the utility pole. An Edison worker said currently no one in the area was affected but that the pole would have to be replaced.
