

Resource Guide for Respondents in the Grievance Process for Sexual and Gender-Based Misconduct and Interpersonal Violence

Receiving notice of an investigation relating to your involvement in an alleged violation of the Sexual and Gender-Based Misconduct and Interpersonal Violence policy can prompt a range of emotions. Below are resources that can help you better understand the grievance process, as well as resources you may wish to contact for support. It is important to remember that no offices other than those required by the process will be notified of the ongoing investigation. As you navigate this process, we encourage you to find individuals with whom you feel comfortable talking so that you have support in working through this very complex situation. Please note that some on-campus and off-campus resources included below are listed as CONFIDENTIAL, while others are described as PRIVATE.

Private means that information related to a report of gender-based misconduct will be shared with a limited circle of College employees who “need to know” in order to assist in the assessment, investigation, and resolution of the report. All employees who are involved in the College’s response to reports of violations of this policy receive specific training and guidance about sharing and safeguarding private information in accordance with state and federal law.

Confidentiality exists in the context of laws that protect certain relationships, including with medical and clinical care providers, mental health providers, counselors, and ordained clergy, all of whom may engage in confidential communications under Massachusetts law. The College has designated individuals who have the ability to have privileged communications as “Confidential Employees,” and those resources are indicated below.
